Architectural. Adaptive. Real Wood Veneer

The Carolina Collection is ideal for Residential and Commercial use, offering exceptional quality, strength, and durability. It's design flexibility gives it appeal & responsiveness to trends in how people work, study & game.

Greater flexibility & better design appeals to responsive workplace trends in how people work, study & game.

Workplace trends have changed in recent years from where we work, how we work, and the type of computers and tech devices we use. The Carolina Collection was carefully and thoughtfully designed to accommodate not just current tech trends, but also those of the future.

Designed for more casual collaboration, modular desks that can be grouped, arranged and rearranged easily to fit your use and space.

Personalize-able - with tuck-away add-on's such as files that fit sleekly under desk, drawer kits, and shelf kits that provide ergonomic comfort for conventional computing.

Plenty of desktop surface for laptops, tablets, iPads and smartphones.

For Residential and Commercial: Carolina Collection is as pleasing and functional in a residential environment as it is in a commercial one. It's clean, classic lines and natural finish add pleasing architectural design appeal in any room.

The ideal workplace is creative, artistic, and inspirational. Carolina Collection is that and more. The use of real wood veneer inspires the warmth to design lines that clean and purely classic. Modularity gives it responsiveness to changing room layouts and use. With finished fronts and backs, desks and groups can be used easily and conveniently in wide open rooms without walls. Premium quality construction gives lasting durability and strength.

Everyone is using a lot of different kinds of technology. Carolina Collection's slightly raised hutches provide cord management that is sleek and non-destructive to desktop surfaces. In the past, you might have had just a computer on your desk. Now, you may be using a laptop, tablet and a smartphone. The Carolina Collection allows you to keep all your tech wires organized and out of the way without destroying your desktop.

Carolina Collection provides versatility in design and purpose for general and specific use.

Carolina Collection use of natural materials provides a sensual and soothing work environment.

Our company is working to show that we value the environment. Furniture and packaging with low chemical emissions made from recyclable material is one way to show this corporate value.

More people are working from home. With an increasing number of companies allowing employees to work from remote locations, more people are working from their home office, which means there is a greater need for office furniture designed for home use, many times to fit smaller spaces. With the Carolina Collection it's easier than ever to design a home office that is stylish, yet efficient and comfortable.
